

Tired, Weak, Nervous Could Not Sleep.

Prof. L. D. Edwards, of Preston, Idaho, says: "I was all run down, weak, nervous and irritable through overwork. I suffered from brain fatigue, mental depression, etc. I became so weak and nervous that I could not sleep. I would arise tired, discouraged and blue. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine and now everything is changed. I sleep soundly, I feel bright, active and ambitious. I can do more in one day now than I used to do in a week. For this great good I give Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine the sole credit. It cures."

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it in 25¢ bottles for 65¢. It will be sent prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

THE HAYWARD THUGS.

Rumored Existence of an Organized Gang of Murderers.

FURTHER ARRESTS ARE EXPECTED. Detectives Unearthing the Plot Which Resulted in the Murder of Pretty Catherine Gling—Another Mysterious Disappearance Charged Against Hayward.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 13.—Harry Hayward knew Charles A. Austin, of Albany, N. Y., who arrived in Minneapolis a year ago with a certified check of $6,500 and carried a $3,000 life insurance. Austin was engaged to a lady at Atlanta, Ga., and Hayward accounted for Austin's absence from Minneapolis later by stating that he had gone to Atlanta to be married. Austin never reached Atlanta, and has never been seen since. A body which was disfigured beyond identification was found in the Mississippi river a few days after Austin's disappearance, and it is now thought to have been Austin, and the theory is advanced that Hayward made away with him.

The statements have been made that Harry Hayward was engaged to be married to the estimable daughter of C. J. Bartleson, of this city. This story has no foundation in fact, Miss Bartleson having only a passing acquaintance with the man.

The Journal says there are probably more arrests to come in the Gling case. From the first it had been regarded as well nigh incredible that Harry Hayward, used as he was to playing for high stakes, a man who had often bet $10,000 on the turn of a card, should enter into a conspiracy against this girl's life for a share of only $30,000 insurance. It has been considered of paramount importance that the man who sent a note to Miss Gling on the morning of the murder, from outside the West hotel, should be identified. The fact that he has not come forward has inspired the authorities with a belief that he had an important connection with the case, and this man will have to be arrested before the state can regard its case against Hayward as a good one.

Hayward had a greater incentive than has hitherto been supposed in desiring the death of Catherine Gling. The young woman is said to have very good authority to have had five insurance policies, instead of ten, and each of them was for $5,000. Three other persons besides Hayward were in the plan for bringing about her death, and these men have not yet been taken into custody.

That no report has been made of the existence of other policies on Miss Gling's life is not surprising, for the reason that, presuming the conspirators are afraid to demand settlement of their claims, the companies with which the insurance is placed will escape having to pay the money to the dead woman's heirs. This in itself is a sufficient reason for silence on their part, and especially as the policies were obtained in the beginning with the evident intent to defraud. Blix is probably aware of the complexity of others. It is this knowledge that he conceals and which the police have been diligently trying to squeeze out of him.

Two detectives are shadowing the suspected parties. None of the officials will give the slightest hint as to who these persons are. A diligent search is going on to discover with what companies the remaining insurance was placed, but no trace of it has been discovered. At the same time the authorities have information on which an arrest might be made at any time. The intention in holding off is to secure evidence that may be used as a lever on the men when they are taken in.

Evidence is now pretty well in hand that Hayward was the local member of an insurance gang. A detective working on the case has discovered that the methods of this gang were to secure life insurance on persons who could be induced to take out heavy insurance, on the representation that money could be borrowed on the policies. It would be plainly demonstrated to the insured that a profitable business could be carried on in this way.

The plan to murder Catherine Gling was developed by four members of the gang, of which Hayward was one. These four men were in Miss Gling's room holding a conference with her on Sunday afternoon, the day before the murder. The men employed by the insurance companies and the local authorities in hunting up the missing evidence are very reticent.

The grand jury has finished its investigations of the case, but no indictments have yet been found.

An Unsatisfactory Report. BALTIMORE, Dec. 13.—The promoters of the Delaware ship canal are astounded at the report of the commission appointed by President Cleveland, which announced that it had resolved on the Back creek and Old Chesapeake and Delaware canal route. The permanent committee composed of members of the city council and leading business men, say that their wishes have been absolutely disregarded, and that the route selected would be of no use to the commerce of the city.

GOING BACK FOR TRIAL. Bank Embezzler Seely Leaves Chicago for New York.

THE PRISONER NON-COMMITTAL. He Declares, However, that Baker Was the Only Man Concerned with Him in the Steal—McFarland, the Informer, Wants the Reward Right Away.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—At 5 o'clock last evening President Crane, of the Show and Leather National bank, of New York, walked into United States Marshal Arnold's office. Half an hour after he was sitting in Inspector Shea's office, when the door opened and his defaulting bookkeeper, Samuel C. Seely, stepped into the room. Mr. Seely reached out and took the extended hand of President Crane. As the president shook Seely's hand with the warmth of an old friend it was readily seen that Seely was much affected. His body trembled with emotion, his lips quivered and in a low and stammering tone of voice he said: "Mr. Crane, I did not think you would want to shake hands with me."

Mr. Crane, pushing Seely into the chair beside him, replied in kindly tones: "Why, Sam, I am glad to see you. Sit down."

The door closed on the two men. For half an hour they were closeted together. Inspector Shea, at the request of Mr. Crane, invited the newspaper reporters in waiting to enter the room. To them President Crane said: "Gentlemen, from the importance of the affair you naturally expect some startling developments from this conversation that I have had with Mr. Seely. I have called you in that I might speak in his presence. He absolutely refuses to talk about his case. He says he is entirely in the hands of his counsel, Frank W. Agell, who has requested that he talk to no one about the matter. He has told me that there is no one to whom he would rather tell all than me, but that he would obey the injunction of his counsel."

At the suggestion of a reporter President Crane asked the following question of Seely: "Was there any one else connected with this defalcation besides Baker?"

"That is the man," replied Seely. "Were there no others?"

"No one else."

The prisoner was taken before Commissioner Wirt the morning. He waived examination, and an order of court was secured for his transfer to New York. The prisoner was turned over to Marshal Arnold, and this afternoon the marshal sent him, in charge of a deputy and Detective Nugent, of the New York police force, to the metropolis.

Mr. Crane said this morning that under the terms of the reward offered for the arrest of Seely it will be paid only after the conviction of the prisoner. This will be bad news for McFarland, who has made several calls on the police department to see when he was going to get that $5,000. He wants it all at once, and he wants it now.

Split in Pennsylvania's Baseball League. READING, Pa., Dec. 13.—The Pennsylvania State Baseball league held a stormy session here yesterday, which resulted in the withdrawal of the Philadelphia club and the resignation of Secretary Diddleback. President Hanlon will act as president, secretary and treasurer. Allentown, Carbondale and Easton were admitted to the league. The recorders formed an independent league, composed of clubs in Philadelphia, Newark, Trenton, Wilmington. Some of the best paying towns in eastern Pennsylvania will be asked to join.

Collector Shearer's Denial. HARRISBURG, Dec. 13.—Internal Revenue Collector Shearer denies the story sent out from this city to the effect that he had been notified by his bondsmen that they must be relieved from their obligations. Mr. Shearer says the story grew out of the dissatisfaction of John W. Vrevel, of Carlisle, one of his bondsmen, who became dissatisfied because he was not permitted to name a deputy collector. Mr. Shearer claims that the other gentlemen on his bond are satisfied.

The Weather. For eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware fair; cooler; westerly winds. The weather will be fair in all districts except New England. The temperature will fall in New England and on the Atlantic coast and remain stationary in the other districts.

STOCK AND PRODUCE MARKETS. Closing Quotations of the New York and Philadelphia Exchanges.

New York, Dec. 13.—The stock market opened strong and active, and an advance was recorded which was most marked in the Grangers. The general market was marked by a decidedly healthy tone, which was due to the passage of the pooling bill in the house of representatives. Closing list:
